

Intentional - Love in Community - 06.17.18

We do not drift into discipleship, we need to swim against our natural propensity. We need to practice the New Testament “One Another’s”. As we review the online sermon handout, which of the “one another’s” do you feel you do well? Alternatively, which would you see yourself needing to grow in? (Handout available here: <http://www.summitcommunity.ca/june-17-gerry-gould-love-in-community/>)

Discipleship is necessarily relational. On Sunday, Gerry asked, “Are you trying to fly it alone?” Is this ever true in your life?

Gerry quoted, “Show me your friends & I will show you your future”. Some of our existing relationships could be holding us back, technology can be another hinderance to deeper community. Are there stumbling blocks in your life that you need to push through to experience loving in community more fully?

Discipleship is in partnership with God where we train ourselves & intentionally engage in essential relationships to develop & express Christ-likeness. Who in your life do you have to mentor or disciple you?
