Think of an example of when Christians have been more focused on being right instead of being loving. What would it take to change this behaviour and mindset?

On Sunday, we discussed in groups the question, "What does it mean and practically look like to love one another as Jesus loves us?" Discuss this question again. Which of the examples discussed are particularly meaningful for you to live out in your personal life?

Courageous love to one another requires a balance of tenderness and strength. Which one of these is dominant in your life? How can you increase the other characteristic to create a better balance of the two?

Gerry mentioned that growing spiritually is "social". What kind of challenged (e.g. shattered relationships, slander, malice, etc) are preventing you from growing deeper spiritually? How can others pray for your situation to improve?

“A community shaped by love will take the dance floor and show the world how to dance.” How do you envision Summit Community Church leading by example in love?

Sometimes we can value comfort over love. What comforts do you need to ask God to help you give up so that you can love more?
